BROAD STREET EXTENSION PROJECT IS MYSTERIOUS SECRET; PROPERTY OWNERS LEFT AT SEA BY ALDERMEN

Representatives of Owners of Land In Interest Don't Know What to Do For Their Clients.

More Factories After Rights of Way and Ownership, Too, of Public Thoroughfares—Hearings Soon.

As to just how the Republican members of the common council propose to extend Broad street, they are keeping the public in the dark. No plans have been drawn or even considered according to the statement of the chairman of the committee last night. Yet a public hearing was ordered last night and representatives of those whose property must be taken appeared at the hearing uncertain as to whether they would favor or oppose the project. Benjamin F. Root, clerk in the local post office, representing himself and Miss Beattie E. Ford, alone appeared in favor of the extension. He said he had been in favor of the project for years.

Joseph Quint of the paving and sewer commission explained a plan of his own to relieve traffic congestion by widening parts of State street, Water street and Middle street.

Robert Pittsford, Police Lieut. Garrie Sanger and others appeared in favor of the establishment of building lines in Edna street.

Samuel Dawe of East Main street opposed the petition of the Connecticut Co. to relocate its tracks in Noble avenue from Barnum avenue to Arctic street. The street is being widened in this section and the company wants to place its tracks on eight foot centers. Mr. Dawe said there was no use in widening the street if the petition was to be granted.

He presented petitions for laying Warrenite or wooden block in East Main street and extending the White Way up that street. He said there were holes in the East Main street paving "deep enough to bury a wagon."

Attorney Henry Greenstein for the Clausen-Planagan Brewery Co. opposed the proposed widening of Atlantic avenue, eight feet on the west side from Congress street to East Washington avenue. He said the street is wide enough for the traffic that now uses it.

Attorney John M. Banks on behalf of Fairchild & Shelton Co. also opposed the widening. Attorney Edward J. McManus, representing the A. W. Burritt Co. asked that the proposed change of grade in Arctic street from Knowlton street to the river bank be made a part of the Grand street bridge project as he said it properly belonged there.

Nicholas Tesny said residents of the North End had been waiting many years for the improvement which the Danbury & Bethel Railway Co. proposes by relocating its tracks in upper Main street.

Upon recommendation of the streets and sidewalks committee, the council granted the following petitions: Establishment of grade on Deane avenue extending to the establishment of grade on Norman street between Wade and North streets; widening of Congress street to a uniform line by setting back curb and fences between Main and Washington.

Public hearings were ordered for June 19 on the petition of the A. W. Burritt Co. to close Hicks street to the Pequonnock river and of the Persons Foundry Co. to locate two spur tracks to their factory in Housatonic avenue.

An ordinance was adopted placing the police and fire alarm signal systems under the direction of the signal men in the fire department. The ordinance becomes operative July 1.

The Automatic Machine Co. gave notice of intention to withdraw its appeal from the damages allowed for property taken for the new Stratford avenue bridge. The amount is $2,174 for which the city clerk has been instructed to draw an order.

The number of employees in the health department has so increased that in the future the clerk of the department will get the money from the city auditor and pay off twice a month. In the past the city clerk has drawn checks for each attaché.

A. B. and E. Henkel's application to close Waterman avenue from Connecticut avenue to the railroad. Attorney John J. Cullinan opposed the establishment of a four-foot bulging line in Gold street. His clients have plans to build out even with some buildings there now.

DISPUTE OVER STORE. Possession of the store at Main and Golden Hill streets is the point still in dispute in the suit brought by the Mohican Co. against Joseph Lesser, argued this morning before Judge Scott in the common pleas court. Lesser claims to have a renewal of his lease and the Mohican Co., which has already leased the premises to another man, says Lesser is not entitled to possession. The court reserved decision.

INJUNCTION MAY PREVENT GRANT OF SPUR TRACK

Many Citizens Aroused Over Council's Action on Wakelee Street Petition.

Property owners in Wakelee street may bring injunction proceedings to halt the grant list night by the common council of the permit to Mrs. Mary F. Whitney for a spur track from the Berkshire division line opposite Housatonic avenue, down Wakelee street and across North Washington avenue onto the Whitney land there. A man who refused to give his name or to tell his interest in the matter, called at the city clerk's office and asked what procedure was necessary to start the injunction proceedings. After looking at the map of Mrs. Whitney's holding there he left saying he would find a lawyer.

Judge Alfred B. Beers and Attorney James A. Marr represented property holders in Broad street, but they said they could not tell whether a straight cut or a tunnel was proposed. Alderman MacFadden of the streets and sidewalks committee said no plans had yet been drawn. The mayor said another public hearing would be held on the matter later.

Joseph Quint of the paving and sewer commission explained a plan of his own to relieve traffic congestion by widening parts of State street, Water street and Middle street.

Robert Pittsford, Police Lieut. Garrie Sanger and others appeared in favor of the establishment of building lines in Edna street.

Samuel Dawe of East Main street opposed the petition of the Connecticut Co. to relocate its tracks in Noble avenue from Barnum avenue to Arctic street. Bridgeport Now MACHINISTS' BEST UNIONIZED CITY

Bridgeport is now the strongest union city in the country, as far as machinists are concerned, according to George J. Bowen, business agent of Local No. 30, of the International Association of Machinists.

"In our spring drive we got 1,700 new members," said Mr. Bowen, "and with strong unionization in the shops, conditions are gradually becoming better."

"It's not always necessary to strike to obtain good conditions. The factories are gradually improving wages and conditions here, until now 60 per cent. of the companies pay wages in the neighborhood of what they ought to be."

"This compares very well with conditions in most of the union cities, and it is a little better average than most."
